As a partner of global industry, we know the mechanisms of good cooperation: we put our stamp on it by placing a high value on it and by being trustworthy in our actions

We employ the same commissioning experts, technicians, welders, installers and specialists for many years. We systematically deploy our well-rehearsed teams for jobs and projects in which they can make repeated use of their know how – to the advantage of our customers and their projects. The working climate at Pumilia is open-minded, congenial and characterized by a wide cultural horizon.

We are constantly undergoing development. Over and above practical experience, we make a conscious effort to invest in certificates, new technologies and processes. Through this philosophy, we are capable of providing our customers on the international stage with optimal solutions reflecting the latest developments in the field.

And this is precisely how we intend to continue our work today, tomorrow and in future!
